is a macro recorder, that can help you to automate or record your actions on the keyboard. It lets you record, playback, and edit the keystrokes you type while you are working. It is also very easy to use.

This program records every keystroke you type and saves it in a text document with an extension.kmz. Keymactrain saves a record under your user directory. Each record is identified by a unique name. You can edit the name and path of a record. Keymactrain can record what you type into the Windows Calculator, Open and save files and menu items. Keymactrain runs on all computers that have the required codecs installed. Keymactrain features a user friendly interface that requires no technical skills. Keymactrain can detect the windows desktop and menu items and record what you type in their text boxes. Keymactrain records your Internet browsing sessions and can bookmark the pages you open. Keymactrain records and plays back programs and software features that you start. Keymactrain records only the keystrokes that you type. If you want to record mouse movements, then use a different program. Keymactrain doesn't save any data about the applications that you use. Keymactrain uses a simple text editor for editing text. You can add, delete, and modify the content of the records. You can also change the time stamp of the record. You can import, export, and share keymactrain records with other people. Keymactrain uses the Microsoft documentation when it finds an undocumented keycode. Keymactrain can turn itself off and
